Activity 2

Determining Inspection Flow

Read the following scenario:

You are inspecting a full-service restaurant that is open for breakfast, lunch, and dinner. The time you begin your inspection is 10:45 a.m. After introducing yourself, presenting your credentials, explaining the purpose of your visit, asking for a menu to take with you during the inspection, donning a hair restraint, and washing your hands, you conduct a quick walk-through and ask specific questions of the person in charge to determine whether cooking, cooling, reheating, preparation, or receiving is occurring.

The following is a list of the activities you observe during the quick walk-through:
A. There are three, partially covered, 6 -inch metal containers of cooked refried beans sitting on the back-preparation tables.
B. Hamburgers and chicken are being cooked on the grill on the line.
C. Someone is washing cookware in the three-compartment sink. Only two compartments are filled. There is something thawing in the third compartment.
D. There are several PHFs (TCS Foods) in the steam table on the line. Manager states that no reheating is being done.
E. Boxes of food are sitting outside the walk-in cooler. They are cold to the touch. The manager started putting up the order
F. An open container of raw meat is stored above exposed ready-to-eat (RTE), washed salad in the walk-in cooler. No visual contamination
G. There are deep containers of PHFs (TCS Foods) in the walk-in cooler. Temperature unknown. Manager has already stated that they aren't cooling anything.
H. The manager states they are cooking pork roasts in the oven.
I. Wait staff is seen touching rolls and other RTE bread items with their bare hands in the expo area.
J. There is a customer self-service hot bar and salad bar being set up in the dining area.

1. Assess activities A-J above and determine if the activity is STATIC or DYNAMIC.
2. From activities $A-J$ above, decide the top FOUR priorities for your inspection.
3. Be prepared to discuss your answers with the group.
